

Standing in the Gap: Caring for God's Creation

Featuring keynote speaker
The Rev. Dr. Leah D. Schade, PhD

January 11 from 7 to 9 pm
at Woodland Christian Church (DOC)
530 E. High St., Lexington, KY 40502

Bluegrass Interfaith Power/Light has partnered with Woodland Christian Church to bring you another valuable and informative creation care event. "Standing in the Gap: Caring for God's Creation" will explore real-world stories of creation care success from individuals and faith communities in the Lexington area.

This event will feature the Rev. Dr. Leah D. Schade as the keynote speaker. Dr. Schade has served as an anti-fracking and climate activist, community organizer, and advocate for environmental justice issues, and is a trained workshop leader for Lutherans Restoring Creation, a grassroots movement helping congregations learn how to "go green". Dr. Schade is also the author of the book Creation-Crisis Preaching: Ecological Theologies and Homiletics.

Refreshments will be provided by the church and door prizes will be provided by Dr. Schade.

The event will be from 7:00 to 9:00 pm at Woodland, which will provide free parking and has requested that attendees use the Kentucky Avenue side entrance.